FEATURING

AWARD-WINNING,
BEST-SELLING AUTHOR

SANDRA DALLAS

Celebrating the release of her newest novel

Based on the success of a luncheon hosted by the Laramie County Library's Foundation last year, the Board of Directors is pleased to announce the 2nd Annual "Lunch for the Library."

On May 1, 2010, another best-selling, award-winning author, Sandra Dallas, will be coming to Cheyenne as the featured speaker for the library's annual luncheon. Dubbed "a quintessential American voice" by Jane Smiley, in Vogue Magazine, Dallas fills her novels with themes of loyalty, friendship, and human dignity. A journalism graduate of the University of Denver, Sandra began her writing career as a reporter with Business Week, eventually becoming the magazine's first female bureau chief in the Rocky Mountain region. Many of her experiences have been incorporated into her novels.

Read more about this entertaining speaker and prolific author and her best selling novels on her web site at www.sandradallas.com.

Make plans now to come to Little America, doors open at 11:30, to hear Ms Dallas talk about her experiences in writing both fiction and non-fiction. Purchase her newest book, being released just weeks before this event, and get her autograph. Watch for more information about making reservations on this website, in the mail and from the media.
